PROFILE

Paul Jammy has been practising at the Sydney Bar since 2012. He has a commercial litigation practice, with particular focus on banking and financial services disputes and consumer law. His clients have included the Commonwealth Bank, ANZ Bank and the Bank of Queensland. Paul appears regularly in the Federal Court, State and Territory Supreme Courts at first instance and appellate level around Australia.

He has given a number of opinions to the Law Society of New South Wales concerning issues of professional conduct, and has represented the Law Society in litigation concerning the treatment of trust moneys and the suspension of the practising certificates of solicitors.

PREVIOUS PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Paul was admitted as an Advocate (Barrister) of the High Court of South Africa in 1991 and practised as a member of the Johannesburg Society of Advocates for 17 years from 1991 to 2008.

Prior to returning to the Bar Paul was employed by Clayton Utz as a Special Counsel in the commercial litigation department. He commenced his employment with Clayton Utz upon his arrival in Australia in 2008.

At Clayton Utz he was primarily involved in Financial Services Regulation and associated litigation, including investor and shareholder class actions. He was also involved with regulatory disputes involving corporations and financial institutions (with ASIC, the ACCC and the ATO), and in taxation disputes
